

Connected Communities

ICT use and connectivity of minority communities in Wales

Introduction

Connected Communities is a new cross-Research Council research programme led by the AHRC. The current proposed vision for the Programme is “to mobilise the potential for increasingly inter-connected communities to enhance self-reliance, regeneration, sustainability, health & well-being by better connecting research, stakeholders and communities.”

The Project

ICT use and connectivity of minority communities in Wales is part of the connected communities research programme. This project will conduct a systematic research review in order to gain an understanding of the impact of Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) on changing cultures and patterns of connectivity within and between minority communities and the potential of multifaceted digital divides in constraining or shaping these forms of connectivity in Wales.

For project contact details and more information on project events and activities visit our website.

Website: www.wiserd.ac.uk/research/cc

Swansea University
Prifysgol Abertawe

Arts & Humanities
Research Council